MOKENA BROTHERHOOD WINS COVETED RECOGNITION

Work of local society is recognized by national assemblege.

NEXT MEETING A HUMMER

Mokena, Sept. 18.—The Brotherhood of the St. John German Evang. church held a meeting Wednesday night, the first session in three months. The meeting was really interesting. The Rev. Wm. Kreis gave an interesting report of the Brotherhood convention held at Elmhurst a few weeks ago. Wm. Niethammer, the secretary of the local Brotherhood, who represented the local society as delegate at the Brotherhood gathering at Elmhurst, also gave a brief report of the session. Mr. Niethammer was selected as a candidate for the office of treasurer of the national Brotherhood, but lost out in the race.

The Rev. Mr. Kreis called attention to the attention the Mokena Brotherhood has called to the national Brotherhood by the work which has been done here. He said the members should strive to better the Brotherhood in every way possible and to make the meetings highly interesting. The Rev. Mr. Kreis has arranged for a debate for the next meeting as to whether the League of Nations would be a benefit to America or a detriment. He appointed Wm. Semmler, Editor of the News-Bulletin for the affirmative side and W. H. Bechstein, local grain merchant, in charge of the negative side. A highly interesting program is promised for the next meeting next month.

Miss Helen Gardner has returned to Rockford after spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. K. Knox.

Mrs. Aug. Pfleger, who has been in the Silver Cross hospital for several weeks, is not showing much improvement.

Sweet Tooth Comes under New License

Mokena, Sept. 18- The Village Board passed a new license at a special meeting held Wednesday night which requires every person, firm or corporation desiring to sell candies, gum or confectioneries of any kind, in the village to first obtain a license before proceeding to sell such goods.

The license fee is $10 per year, payable in advance and no license will be issued for less than a one year term.

The ordinance governing the license in question carries a penalty clause from $5 to $20o for any violation of the ordinance.

Mrs. Wenzel Hauser was the victim of an accident at her home Wednesday. She had left a trap cellar door open and upon re-entering the room forgot about the door being left open and fell into the cellar. She was badly bruised and shook up but no bones were broken. Her aged husband was the only person in the house at the time and it was with great effort that he managed to get her upstairs again.

A meeting of the Sunday school board was held at the Methodist church Sunday morning following Sunday school.

NEW LENOX EXCITED OVER NIGHT SHOTS

Boys get in bad by annoying Spuehler home at the midnight hour.

New Lenox, Sept. 18.—The residents of New Lenox were awakened Friday night by revolver shots followed by cursing and yells. It was not until the next morning that the story came out that a number of New Lenox boys had erred in what they termed "Same clean sport" when they visited the home of John Spuehler about the midnight hour and aroused the family out of their slumber by annoying them with ticktacks and other stunts. Mr. Spuehler ordered the marauders away, but when they repeated their tactics he got his revolver and fired in the air to frighten them away. This incensed the crowd who threatened to do him bodily harm, but were cowed by the revolver. Mr. Spuehler chased the boys thru the streets and shot several times. It is alleged that most of the boys in the crowd were former soldier boys. It is considered too bad that there is nothing in the village to hold the interest of the boys and that this kind of "sport" has to be resorted to is considered very unfortunate. Mr. Spuehler had no intention of shooting anyone but was determined to have the annoyance end at once.

Thursday night a company of young fellows thought it "clean sport" to despoil the garden of Miss Nellie Gougar. Melons were torn from the vines and placed in a neighboring yard. Grapes were taken from the T. J. Doig place. It is a disgrace to the village to have such affairs occur and it is hoped that such scenes will not occur again. It is detrimental to all concerned.

ELECT DELEGATE.

Methodist churches throughout the country are preparing for the general conference to be held in Des Moines Ia., next May, by electing delegates Sunday morning an election was held at the local Methodist church for the purpose of electing a delegate and reserve to attend the lay electoral conference to be held in Chicago on Oct. 12. The electoral conference in turn will vote on delegates, who will select the delegates of the district to attend the general conference, which meets once in four years. The following delegates are to represent New Lenox at the electoral conference:

The annual conference of the Methodist churches of this district will be held in the St. James' church, Chicago on Oct. 10, and will continue for one week.

The sacramental service was held at theMethodist church last Sunday, the Rev. J. L. Matlack officiating.

Mrs. Henry Sass has received word that her daughter Mrs. Wm. Selk, and son, who have been spending a few months with her, have arrived in Plymouth, Neb. The weather has been exceedingly dry there, but a good shower fell the past week, freshening things

Edward Sass has a banner corn crop as shown by the extra large ear of corn he has exhibited. The ear was 12 inches long and well filled with kernels.

Mrs. Emery Post, who has been spending a few months at her home here, returned the past week to the Soldiers and Sailors Widows' Home at Wilmington, where she intends to stay for the winter.

The ladies of the Grace Episcopal church are planning to conduct a bakery sale in the near future.

Morgan Button and Fred Gould have returned from a trip to Minnesota, where they looked over some farm land, Mr. Button securing an option on some land.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosewell was christened at the Grace Episcopal church last Sunday, the Rev. L. W. Applegate of Hobart, Ind., officiating. The communion service was also observed.

Mrs. L. W. Applegate of Hobart, Ind., has been visiting with New Lenox friends the past week.

BOY FINDS A DIAMOND RING ON GOLF LINKS

Chicago Heights lad gets $100 reward from rich Chicago man.

BIG RAILROAD YARDS PLAN

A young boy from Chicago Heights found a diamond ring on the Olympian Fields golf grounds the past week. He notified the officials of the grounds who found the owner, a wealthy Chicago man. The man was so grateful to the boy for his honesty in returning the ring that he gave him the liberal reward of $100.00.

The church social directed Sept. 7th on the village lot under the auspices of the Zion Evan. church was well attended and was a big success socially as well as financially.

RECORD INSURANCE WRITER.

Wm. Rea, assistant cashier of the Matteson State Bank has established an excellent record for writing life insurance, having written $40,000.00 worth within the last few months.

The Misses Belle and Ruby Wenger of New Carlisle, Ind., have been entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Hercules the past week.

The Fiebig family are the proud parents of a new addition to their family.

Mrs. Theodore Matthews has been on the sick list. She is improving.

Mrs. Clarence Keir of Chicago has been visiting with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Keir the past week.

John W. Muff, our popular merchant and meat dealer, has purchased a new Ford.

The primary election held last Wednesday created very little interest and only a light vote was cast.

John Dickman of Homewood has been a guest at the Otto Kruse home.

Arthur Mahler has been in Orland and Worth the past week selling tractors.

A surprise party was held at the home of Miss Gladys Gruntz Thursday evening when a company of twenty of her friends gathered. The evening was spent in playing games and other amusements. Refreshments were served. All enjoyed a good time.

A party was held at the A. F. Robinson home Saturday night. A company of young folks were entertained. A good time is reported.

Dr. A. C. Hercules has had charge of a number of operations at the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights.

Matteson, Sept. 18.—The I. C. railroad is planning to build what is considered to be the largest railroad yard in the United States between Homewood and Harvey, as soon as the railroads are returned to private ownership by the government. This will mean much for Matteson too, inasmuch as the railroad will also improve the property they have here. A large number of people would be employed and it would mean new residents for Matteson.

Last Saturday night Misses Vera Boyer and Malinda Lustfeldt entertained about fifty guests at a double birthday party held on the lawn of the Lustfeldt home. The lawn was prettily lighted with Japanese lanterns and electric lights hung in the trees. There were all kinds of games, and amusements. Refreshments were served. All enjoyed a good time.

ALL SOLDIER BOYS OF TINLEY PARK HAVE RETURNED

Many of the boys saw active and received officers commissons.

Tinley Park, Sept. 18.—The Tinley Park soldier boys have all returned home. Some saw active service in France, but luckily none were injured and are all home safe. The following is the honor list:

August Firchau family had three sons in the service—Edward, William and Rudolph. Rudolph saw active service in France and returned as a corporal. William was in the navy and made two trips across on a transport. He was stationed on the battleship Mississippi. Edward was the last to return coming back last week.

The John M. Rauhoff family had two sons, Millard and Paul, in the service. Millard was connected with a base hospital in France and saw some very interesting sights.

The Fred Schmediknecht family had two sons in the service also. They were Fred and Edward, the latter seeing service in France. Fred enlisted with the marines. They have been home for some time.

Edward Henke, Henry Goebel, Norman Hardinger, who attained the rank of sergeant, the son of Wm. Kott Charles Domke, Henry Mohr, Francis Harper, Art Schoeneck, who was made a corporal, Albert Boener, Albert Ickstadt, who was connected with the medical department in France, Rudolph Freberg, who saw some hot fighting, Joe Rick, who served with the light artillery in France, William Koehler, Jr., who saw active service in France, Henry Schreiber, Harold Berg, Art Studer, who served in the navy on the battleship Wisconsin, Percy Hamilton, who saw oversea service in the army, Rudolph Stockman, Hilbert Siekman, who was with the marines in France and Theodore Englehart. These are the boys who represented Tinley Park in the great world war, and of whom Tinley Park is justly proud. We are all glad to welcome them home again.

REAL ESTATE BOOM ON.

Tinley Park is having a real estate boom. The old Hopkins farm which was sold some time ago to the McIntosh Realty Co., of Chicago, in order to settle the estate, is being laid out in lots. The county surveyor was here last week laying out the land. Sunday a large number of prospective buyers were out looking over the new site.

A real estate firm from Chicago which recently purchased the Otto Wille property is also contemplating laying out a subdivision, it is understood.

SCHMEDIKNECHT-BRANDAU NUPTIALS.

Miss Elsie Schmediknecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmediknecht and Elmer Brandau were united in marriage in Chicago last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hentzch of Minooka spent Sunday with the John Hollstein family.

Miss Dora Maihoff has gone on a trip to Colorado. From there she expects to visit with relatives and friends along the Pacific coast.

Misses Margaret Hopkins and Florence Reiber have returned from a delightful vacation spent in the east. They visited various eastern points of interest. They brought samples of some of the fine fruit which is being grown in New York state.

The Harvest Picnic to be held at Linden Garden next Saturday gives promise of being a big event. Special prizes will be awarded on fruit, vegetables, etc. Dancing, afternoon and evening. Music will be furnished by a jazz band.

Adam Keuch was taken seriously ill the latter part of the week and was taken to the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, on Saturday.

Mrs. Julius Pflaff, who has been quite ill with a severe attack of gall stones, is much improved. A trained nurse has been in attendance.

Mrs. Jerry Grasmeier underwent an operation at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, Friday morning, Dr. W. V. Hedges performing the operation. She is convalescing favorably.

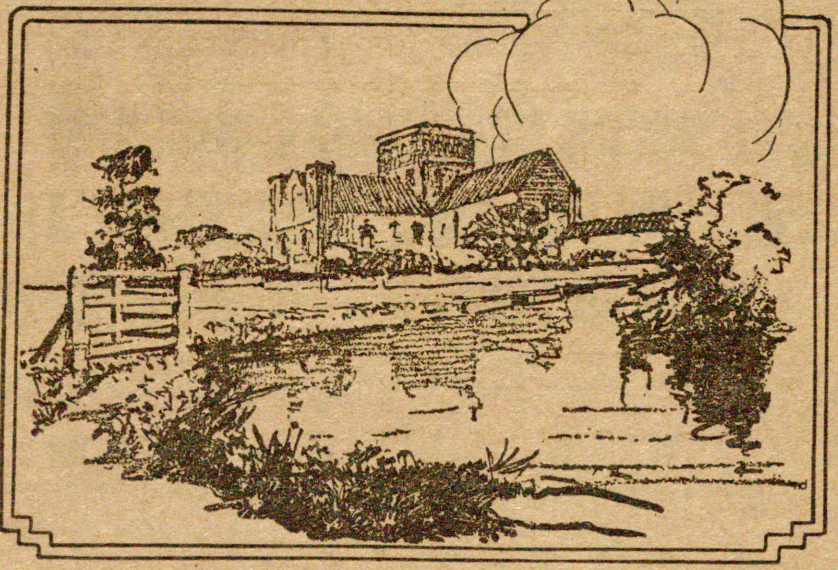
GO TO OTHER HIGH SCHOOLS.

The tangle in which this district has found itself with the Joliet township High school has not been adjusted as yet. In order not to lose out in their studies while waiting for the affair to be settled, a number of the local students have enrolled in other high schools for the ensuing term. The Misses Miriam Balchowsky, Grace and Olive Kohlhagen are attending the Englewood High school. They board with friends and return home the week end. Others of the students plan to attend the Chicago Heights High school.

Harry Nitkin who has opened a junk shop here is now ready to buy up all kinds of steam engines, gas and auto engines, and junk of all kinds. Even brick houses will be purchased for the bricks which can be used again. Glass is also on the marketable list.

Miss Florence Folkers leaves this week for Champaign to attend the University of Illinois.

In the Valley of the Itchen



St. Cross, Winchester.

ON THIS morning of spring, when the sun, at last, after many weeks of retirement, has shown his golden face above the eastward downs, any city—even so fair a city as Winchester—seems for the moment, undesirable. One seeks instinctively a wider sky-space, hills and meadows, and the flow of the new-fallen waters for company. These are in the valley of the Itchen, writes a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

Through the cathedral close the way lies, down the avenue, past the western door and out before the spaces of emerald lawn, above which towers this majestic pile, within whose walls, and around them, are memoried so much of England's history, from great Alfred and Chanute, past William of Wykeham and Wolsey, to the modern men of learning and lawn sleeves.

Beautifully harmonious are the surroundings, both in line and color—soft grays of full round Norman arches, vivid greens of cloister-garth, blending with the darker tints of immemorial yews, and the golden sheen of lichens upon gnarled tree-trunks. Here are rich reds and browns, upon the tiled copings of mossy walls, on barge-boards of ancient gabled roofs and in the delicate rose-pink network of interlacing twigs, through which the cathedral town is seen. Thus, among ever-changing charms, you twist and turn, now round a corner, beneath the shadow of an arch, now out again into the full sunlight, before another bend leads you once more through the pleasant gloom of the eastern gate.

Beside Wykeham's college, modestly fronting the road, is a little humble, buff-colored building, with an oriel window, and a legend reminding us that here Jane Austen lived her later days. Her house, among so many surrounding grandeurs, wears—as I suppose the writer herself wore—an air of shy timidity, not without grace in these, sometimes, too blatant days.

Here are Wykehamists, fresh-faced, in straw hats, symbolizing a coming summer, and here, past the gray ruins of Wolsey castle—where Mary of England, before her marriage, feted her Spanish husband-to-be—are the fresh green water-meadows of the Itchen, and beyond, clear-cut against the skyline, the tree-crested ridge of St. Catherine's hill, with memories of King Charles II and of the college's "Dulce Domum."

The Waters Splash and Bubble.

On either side the meadow path the waters splash and bubble, swish and eddy with a music most melodious and meaningful, even to those unlearned in fish lore. Gray gulls hover, mirrored in the shining surface, and linger over it, so as to set one wondering what lure it was that led them from their open sea into this inland Hampshire valley. Down below, above a sandy bed, the forest of fern-like water weeds bends to the current, and the minnows—or the minnow-kind—dart and play about its glades. Right ahead there is age-long majesty again—the gabled roofs and towered church of the Hospital of St. Cross, embowered in ancestral elms. Here I sit, upon a white stile, to enjoy a fleeting glimpse of a thatched roof, and watch, across the sliding water-mirror, the fringe of pink feathery grasses nodding and quivering to the breeze.

I am tempted almost to go into the hospital, and demand the "Wayfarer's Dole"—not that I want the dole—which, moreover, is meager during these days—but that it is pleasant to partake of a charity practiced for so many centuries by the brethren in red and black. Some say—I hardly know with what truth—that St. Cross is the hospital in which Anthony Trollope placed "The Warden" of the novel so named, and of "Barchester Towers." Trollope, in his autobiography names Salisbury, not Winton, as the city in which he first conceived the story of that gentle priest; but, Barsetshire being a county of his own imagining, he may well have conjured a little with English topography. And, thinking of Trollope—while my eyes linger upon the crocus-gemmed lawns of St. Cross, and the orange-budded chestnut twigs shiny with flowing sap—how many others, famous in literature, have trod these velvet paths, and those of the hills on either hand!

A Goodly Five.

"Old John of Gaunt, time-honored Lancaster" perhaps, from his place at King's Lambourn; Alexander Pope, a boy from fair Twyford village, musing already upon the nature of man; John Keble of the "Christian Year," from his vicarage at Hursley; John Keats, from over Hazeley Down, with the "Ode to Autumn" fashioning itself in his mind:

> Where are the songs of spring—aye where are they?
> Think not of them, thou hast thy music, too,
> While barred clouds bloom the soft-dying day,

and—matching the best of these in genius and in charm—the gentle author of "Emma" and "Northanger Abbey" from her modest home by the cathedral close. Truly a goodly five!

Hereabouts the path mounts awhile from the river bed, beside hedges, that are vocal with the soft flutter of wings, the fluting of hidden birds, and the sudden stir and rustle of small hedgerow life. Drawn by patient brown ponies, slowly mounting the hill, come two gypsy-carts, green-painted, from whose rickety chimneys long wreaths of blue smoke curl upward and vanish. The weather-tanned nomads, each at a horse's head, the cheeky, eager-eyed, tangled boys behind them, the momentary glimpses of a "home," caught through half-open doors, leave somehow, a sense of alluring vagabondage.

A moment later I am down in the valley meadows again, where going is not easy over those winter sodden ways. But what matter mud and water, when every copse is bursting into leaf, and the young spring carols in your ears? Even the pink pigs cease from their nosing on the bank, to gaze and grunt acquiescence. Two gray mares cock their ears, and stare; a speckled trout splashes from under my very feet, ankle-deep in the flood that pours joyously through every water-gate. Across bridge after bridge, wading rather than walking, I reach terra firma again, and soon am resting beneath the big yew tree that stands beside Twyford church.

Ended in Smoke.

I was a member of the summer colony in a small New England town. We were ever in search of novelty, and toward the end of the season decided to have a play and give the natives a treat.

The whole town came out, and (we thought) were duly impressed. At the climax the hero stalked in, brandishing a document, and, in a dramatic voice, cried, "I have the papers." Then a voice from the back row bellowed, "I have the makin's!" That, of course, ruined our play.

Needless to say, we attempted no more dramatics.—Chicago Tribune.

Little Pessimist.

For weeks the weather had been beautiful, and the morning of the picnic there was not a cloud in the sky. When everything was packed and all were ready to start, Buddy hurried into the house and came out carrying an umbrella, muttering to himself, "It'll be sure to rain before we gets back."

Coming Styles in Millinery

TRIMMED BRIM IS CERTAIN

Will Be Used in Many Ways, Most of Them Charming—High Draped Crowns Sure to Be Another Feature.

While it seems somewhat early in the season to speak with finality of the fall and winter hats, enough new shapes have been displayed to give us some inkling of what is to come, writes Martha Goode Anderson in the New York Sun. For several weeks now we have seen a sweeping rage of the felt hats with wide brims and exploited in the palest pastel shades and ornamented with bright and gay wool stitchery. As this wool stitchery is to be so much in evidence throughout the winter not only on hats but on coats, dresses and blouses, it is just as well to consider it seriously and recognize the demand, for it is one of the established facts in winter's coming fashions.

The felt hats of which I am speaking have been used primarily for sport hats with pale-colored sweaters and bright-hued skirts and blouses. We cannot complain of the lack of color during this summer, for as a sort of reaction from the dull and somber hues of the war period our clothes have caught and reflected the most radiant tones of the rainbow and every group has been resplendent in its vivid colors.

The First Showing.

Always at the beginning of every season it seems as if the first showing of millinery included only the wide-brimmed and large hats. This is inevitably so for the spring and summer, as we find ourselves preparing for the hot days when the sun is blinding and we need some sort of protection for eyes and skin. Just why it should be for fall and winter, however, I do not know unless the idea is to display first the dressy hat, as most women go on the principle that having invested in a smart and very good hat almost anything will do for every day. I do not present this idea as conclusive by any means, but it may be one of the reasons why we are shown so few of the small and simple every-day sort of hat and most of the newest shapes are of the splendid velvet picture hats.

Paradise feathers are predominating as trimming. They sweep down, but not up as heretofore, and thick sprays are used more than the single feathers we have seen so much of in recent times. Black paradise is really lovely and so expensive that it need not be disdained by even the most exacting and conservative.

One of the newest shapes which is neither large nor small in size is the round turban with the draped and heavy brim. This is not an easy shape to wear, as it is apt to look very heavy so close to the face. However, it is really very splendid, for it is developed in the rarest and richest of brocades, heavily embroidered in gold and silver and resplendent in a mingling of colors entrancing to see.

The crowns of these wide draped turbans are of velvet or duvetyn as the case may be and are entirely untrimmed, as the present indication in the matter of trimming is seen in the draping of the brim. Where feathers are used they sweep down close to the face, even resting almost under the chin in a soft curve. This way of placing the paradise is an old, old one, borrowed, doubtless, from portraits of great ladies of some hundred or more years ago. It is in distinct contrast to the upstanding and jaunty aigrette which showered in a little fountain of fronds high in the air so much used formerly.

The trimmed brim is used in many ways, as we shall see as the season advances. Single flowers of velvet are being used in flat masses around the wide brims which turn up and away from the face saucer fashion. These hats are not so elaborate and dressy as the picture hats of velvet and paradise, but they are suitable for morning wear and make a trim finish for the shopping dress worn with smart veils and furs.

One of the simplest is exploited in a midnight-blue velvet in the saucer shape with upturned brim. Around the crown is placed a circle of loops made of heaviest blue silk floss in a lighter shade. These loops are used to imitate ostrich fronds, which are also much in evidence as a winter trimming. At one side of this model is placed a large rosette of the loops of the silk floss and an edge of the same finishes the brim around the face.

Another treatment of this upturned brim is seen in the wide sailor shape which has a flaring brim across the front of the hat, giving something of a three-cornered effect seen from the front. This is particularly suited to young faces and youthful types.

The flaring brim is often thickly studded with tiny steel beads or dotted with knots of silk in the kind we call French knots, meaning a tiny dot of the silken thread made by wrapping it twice around the needle and pulling through to the under side. The effect is that of silken beads. As this is often done in contrasting colors it makes a most effective trimming.

Because of the great demand for hats of soft materials, such as duvetyn and velours and velvet, and because of the increasing cost of these soft and beautiful fabrics, the price is continually mounting, especially as so much of the trimming used this year is done by hand and is really hand embroidery. One of the favorite effects is seen in the use of simple blossoms, such as nasturtiums, single-petaled roses and kindred blooms done in outline around crown and brim.

High Draped Crowns.

The high draped crowns are again seen. Sometimes they point up almost a foot above the brim and are draped in a series of folds which keeps them from being awkward and very ugly, as they so easily could be. Of course the brims which accompany these high draped crowns must be wide enough to set them off successfully and prevent a topheavy look. Among the new trimmings are seen much glycerined ostrich feather banding. This sort of treatment of the feathers makes them shiny and glossy. The fronds are placed singly along a narrow band to hold them and are used thus against the brim in a width sufficient to entirely cover the brim and extend slightly beyond.

A new shade is called nasturtium yellow and is as vivid as it can possibly be and very smart when made up in an untrimmed velvet hat rolling as to brim and crown too. These untrimmed hats are quite new, as they have an air entirely all their own and seem to be most elaborate when absolutely untrimmed. This effect is achieved by a clever draping of the velvet, as in one instance the velvet is so arranged that it seems to make a fold over the crown and is folded in over the brim in a double effect which is different from more ordinary arrangements.

Something New in Lingerie

Decidedly unusual is lingerie made of old-fashioned striped silk—just the sort of easily laundered soft silk of which little girls' dresses used to be made long ago.

Cool French blue and white pencil striped silk formed a quaint, attractive nightgown and chemise set designed and made by a recent bride for her trousseau.

Both garments were severely plain, depending almost entirely on the novelty of the material for their charm. A plain band with stripes running horizontally finished the top of both chemise and gown with straight bands of the silk for shoulder straps. A butterfly bow of the silk was fastened on the front of each garment.

Gingham pin-checked silk could be be used instead of the striped, if preferred, a bargain remnant or a discarded summer frock offering possibilities for copying these delightfully different pieces at little or no cost.

Of course a chemise of striped or checked silk may not be worn under any but a thick frock, but to the girl who likes her things to be out of the ordinary this new sort of colorful lingerie will be pleasing—and it is not at all difficult to make.

Browns for Fall Suits.

The new fall suits show a similarity in fabric and color. It is undoubtedly true that browns in the fur and nut shades and some elk are favored, but the dull Pompeian red set off with natural squirrel makes a place for itself. Navy blue has been put back on the shelf, for the blues are more on the trooper shade when they are used Taupe in velvets is liked.

Back Given Out?

Housework is too hard for a woman who is half sick, nervous and always tired. But it keeps piling up, and gives weak kidneys no time to recover. If your back is lame and achy and your kidneys irregular; if you have "blue spells," sick headaches, nervousness, dizziness and rheumatic pains, use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have done wonders for thousands of worn out women.

An Illinois Case

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Mrs. John Hicks, 321 S. Thirteenth St., Mt. Vernon, Ill., says: "I had a severe case of kidney trouble. I used to be so dizzy I would often topple over at my work. My head ached and pained all the time and there was a heavy, dragging feeling through my hips and loins. Headaches were a lot of trouble and my kidneys acted too often. I got Doan's Kidney Pills and used two boxes. They put my kidneys in a healthy condition and I was cured of the backaches and other suffering."

An Apology.

Whether the following excerpt from the Williamsville (N. D.) Item is a bona fide apology, or only the work of the office humorist, it has originality:

"We wish to apologize to Mrs. Orville Overholt. In our paper last week we had as a headline 'Mrs. Overholt's Big Feet.' The word we ought to have used is a French word, pronounced the same way, but spelled 'fete.' It means a celebration, and is considered a very tony word."

Legend tells us of a man who was promised perfect happiness when he could change shirts with the first happy man he met, but when he met the happy man, he did not have a shirt.

DELECTABLE DINNERS.

A beginning for a company dinner which is beautiful to see and as good to eat, besides being easy to prepare, is

Fruit Cocktail.—Cut small balls from the heart of fine colored watermelon, fill stemmed glasses and pour over a sirup of sugar and water boiled to a honey-like consistency and flavored with orange or lemon juice and rind. Let stand until well chilled, serve garnished with a sprig of mint.

Crown Roast of Lamb.—Have the crown roast prepared at the market, having it large enough to hold, when serving, plenty of buttered peas for the number to be served. Wrap the bones carefully while roasting so that they will not be burned, with bits of salt pork; remove when ready to serve. When chestnuts are in season fill with a puree of chestnuts.

New potatoes, small, even sized ones, cooked until tender, rolled in melted butter and sprinkled with parsley are nice to serve with the roast, or potatoes shredded with a vegetable slicer into shoe strings and fried in deep fat may be put around the roast as a garnish.

Head Lettuce with Sherry's Dressing.—Wash the lettuce, drain on a cloth and see that it is perfectly free from water before serving. The dressing should never be placed on lettuce until just ready to serve, as it wilts the crisp salad vegetables. To prepare the dressing chop one small Spanish onion, add two tablespoonfuls each of green and red pepper, chopped; one tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful each of powdered sugar and chopped parsley, a few dashes of cayenne, one quarter cup of vinegar and three-fourths of a cup of olive oil. Put into a Mason jar and shake for five minutes until well blended. Let stand one hour before using, then shake again just as it is ready to serve.

Ginger Ice Cream.—To prepare this ice cream use the usual vanilla cream recipe, taking one tablespoonful of vanilla, one-half cup of Canton ginger cut in small pieces, three tablespoonfuls of the sirup and freeze as usual. Use a sauce of the ginger sirup with chopped ginger if desired or the cream may be plain with the ginger sauce.

Not all on books their criticism waste,
The genius of a dish, some justly taste,
And eat their way to fame.

MEAT EXTENDERS AND OTHER GOOD THINGS.

A small portion of meat which flavors a dish will be satisfying, wholesome and economical.

Ragout of Lamb.—Measure the following ingredients: One-half cupful of dried peas, one pound from the flank of lamb, one quart of cold water, two sliced onions, one teaspoonful of salt, three cupfuls of potato cubes, one cupful of carrot dice, three tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, two teaspoonfuls of catsup, two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsley, pepper and paprika to taste. Pick over the peas and soak over night in cold water to cover. Wipe the meat, remove bones, cut the meat in small pieces and brown in a frying pan with sliced onions. Cover the bones with one quart of cold water, add the soaked peas, bring to boiling point and add the meat. Cook until the meat and peas are almost tender; add salt, potato cubes and carrot dice, cook until the vegetables are soft. Mix the flour with one-third of a cupful of cold water, add to the mixture, stirring carefully, and cook five minutes. Add Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, parsley and salt and pepper, with paprika to taste. Serve at once.

Roast Beef, Mexican Sauce.—Reheat rare roast beef cut in thin slices in Mexican sauce. Cook one onion, finely chopped, in two tablespoonfuls of butter five minutes. Add one red pepper, one green pepper and one clove of garlic, each finely chopped, and two tomatoes peeled and cut in pieces. Cook 15 minutes, add one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoonful of celery salt and salt to taste.

The world is mine oyster which I with sword will open.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

Boiling the molasses to be used in cookies or cake makes them taste richer and cut smoother.

Add a tablespoonful of vinegar to a fish while boiling; it improves the flavor and makes it more flaky.

Never smooth mashed potato in the serving dish. It makes it heavy and compact. Heap it lightly into the dish and dot with bits of butter.

Let puddings and pies cool slightly before putting on the meringue; if not, the meringue will be dotted with drops of liquid.

Overcooking will curdle milk as well as cooking milk that has been salted. It is best to add salt after the milk has been removed from the heat.

If a custard has overcooked, pour it into a cold bowl and beat with an egg beater; if this will not make it smooth, strain and use it as a custard sauce.

To decorate cakes for children, frost them, then dip a small brush into melted chocolate or beaten egg yolk, and put on the design or name desired. Any coloring may be used by adding a bit of color to confectioner's sugar and water or milk.

Use stale bread for French toast. Beat one egg, add a half cup of milk or more, one teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of sugar. Cut the bread in narrow strips and dip in the egg on both sides. Fry in a little hot fat.

Codfish Supper Dish.—Pick up a cupful of soaked codfish into flakes. Mix a pint of mashed potato with two eggs and a pint of milk with a tablespoonful of melted butter, salt and pepper. Put into a buttered baking dish and bake a half hour. Serve hot from the baking dish.

When washing spinach, put salt in the first water; it will save several washings.

When creaming butter for a cake, if in a hurry, add a tablespoon or two of hot water to it; the cake will mix much quicker and is fully as fine grained.

There are few of us, who if we really give our minds to it, cannot find time in which to live rightly and by living rightly we live longer and gain increased happiness for ourselves and our fellow-men.—Olive Green.

MORE ABOUT OYSTERS.

The oyster is so well liked by the majority of people and is served so commonly as stews, cocktails and escalloped dishes that a few other methods of preparing and serving the well-liked shell fish may be welcome.

Oysters with Scrambled Eggs.—This dish is one so appetizing that it should be reserved for the best of friends. Beat six eggs in a deep plate. Cut twelve oysters into small pieces. In a chafing dish, the bottom of which is covered with a thin layer of anchovy paste, melt a tablespoonful of butter; as soon as it is piping hot stir in the eggs. Just before these are done add the oysters, stirring until they are well cooked. When creamy throughout, pour over buttered toast that has been covered with anchovy paste.

Providence Oysters.—Place the oyster liquor in a sauce pan and when boiling drop in a pint of oysters; when the edges curl, remove and add butter, salt and enough cracker crumbs to absorb the liquor; now stir in a beaten egg, add the oysters and serve at once.

A layer of chopped celery added to escalloped oysters is a most tasty flavor which raises the quality of the dish to the unusual.

Oysters a la Fawcett.—Place two dozen oysters in a chafing dish with no liquor, add a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a half cup of apple or orange juice. In another dish cook a quarter of a cup of mushroom liquor with half a cupful each of mushrooms and truffles; cook five minutes, then add the beaten yolks of four eggs and a pint of rich cream. When this is boiling, pour over the oysters which have been cooked just long enough to curl the edges.

Knew Her Letters.

Aunt Grace came into the room where her three-year-old niece was cutting up her grandmother's new magazine. Grandmother was making feeble remonstrances but the small youngster continued placidly with her cutting. Aunt Grace turned to her mother. "It seems to me," she said, "Ruth Marie is getting to be b-a-d (spelling the word)."

But Ruth Marie had not been playing with the school children in the neighborhood for nothing. She knew the word from the sound of its letters and promptly retorted to Aunt Grace, "Well, you aren't so better yourself."

Suspicious.

"Did the detective discover who it was that stole your jewels?"

"I rather think he did. However, I have another detective hunting for him."—Judge.

Father's Little Joke.

I was absent from high school one day. The next day I asked my father, who loves a joke, to write an excuse for me. He did so, and in my hurry I forgot to look at it before handing it to my teacher. She took the note, read it, looked at me, and read it again. I began to feel that something was wrong. Finally she handed me the note. It read: "Please turn Betty over your checkered apron. She needs it."—Exchange.

"Roughing It."

Hostess—Now, everybody, you'll have to drink your champagne out of Burgundy glasses, and the caviar hasn't come, but I know you don't mind roughing it.—Life.

It is more important to be going in the right direction than to be going rapidly.

Done to a Crisp.

A few friends of mine were over to spend the afternoon. I had a cake in the oven baking, as I was keeping house while mother was out of town. During the conversation I told them what a good cook I made, and how I had never wasted or burnt anything. We were busily talking one-half an hour later when one guest exclaimed: "I smell your cake!" Needless to say, it was burned to a crisp.—Exchange.

Somewhat Slighted.

"After all," remarked Methuselah, "my long life has been a good deal of a failure."

"Merely because you kept out of politics?"

"No. But it does seem to me that I've been at least entitled to an occasional interview as to whether or not I attribute my longevity to abstinence from strong drink and tobacco."

"You can't faze an Indian," said Indian Commisioner Malcolm McDowell. "You can't ruffle an Indian's calm dignity.

"I once had the satisfaction to point out to an Indian chief an airplane sailing across the sky. It was the first airplane he'd ever seen, and I had fond hopes that he'd show some excitement.

"'There!' I said. 'There! What do you think of it? Isn't it extraordinary?'

"The chief looked up at the airplane calmly and then he looked calmly at me.

"'But it was built to do that, wasn't it?' he said."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Timber Resources of Labrador.

New Brunswick papers report that an expedition will in a short time leave a maritime province port for the purpose of making an exploration by aeroplane of the timber resources of Labrador, the party using a steamer as a base.

The venture is financed by a Boston banking concern, at an estimated cost of $200,000, with a view of the possible development of new sources of supply of lumber and pulp wood.

Study in Strength.

The muscles have their periods of development and decline. The lifting power of a youth of seventeen is 280 pounds; in his twentieth year this increases to 320 pounds, and in the thirtieth year it reaches 365 pounds. By the fortieth year it has decreased eight pounds; at fifty the figure is 330 pounds.

Colored Rains.

The rain can and does wash down anything that happens to be in the air at the time, including dust, pollen, small insects, but we have no record of tadpoles being washed down out of the air. The phenomena of colored rains, so-called rain of blood, etc., can be readily explained by the presence of dust in the atmosphere.

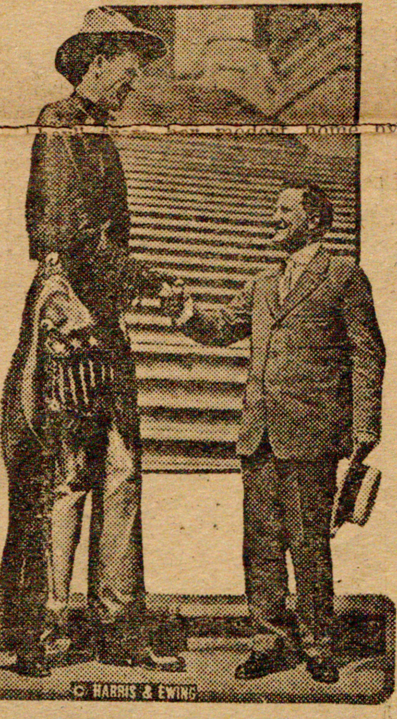
CLAIMS RECORD FOR HEIGHT



Challenging all comers for the distinction of being the tallest man in the United States, Ralph E. Madsen, a cowboy of Ranger, Tex., was disqualified for the service in the army because of his excessive height. The war department height limitations are 78 inches, while Mr. Madsen is 7 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 230 pounds. For 12 years he has followed the varying fortune of a cowboy and has captured many prizes for his daring feats. This photograph shows the mutual admiration between the cowboy and Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas.

The Excuse.

"Ludendorff," said Representative Shouse, "is telling the world the reason why he lost the war. Ludendorff's excuse reminds me of the Irishman.

"An Irishman and a Yankee rowed a race one day. The Yankee was so easily the Irishman's superior that every little while he'd stop rowing and wait for Mike to catch up.

"Well, Mike was beaten, of course, but he said afterwards:

"'Faith, Oi'd have bested the bhoy aisy if Oi'd shtopped an' took the long rests he did.'"

PAY UP TUITION DUES.

New Lenox is out of the high school tuition tangle which many districts throughout the county find themselves in with the Joliet township high school. The New Lenox students who are attending the Joliet high school, were not among the students recently sent home by the Joliet school authorities because their respective districts failed to pay their tuition dues, for the New Lenox board of directors of District No. 122 have paid all arrears. The amount of the bill the Joliet township high school claimed was due them was found to be incorrect, as a number of errors had been made in book-keeping. This non-high school board pays the tuition this year and will pay all tuition for high school purposes in the future. One school district in the south part of New Lenox township has ignored the Joliet township high school board and is sending its students to other high schools.

Jerusalem's Walls.

Jerusalem is inclosed by a wall 38¼ feet in height with 34 towers, forming an irregular quadrangle of about two and a half miles in circumference. The old wall as rebuilt by Nehemiah about 445 B. C. is thought to have been something more than 150 feet high, and at least 250 feet high at the corner towers.

Good Rules for Life's Conduct.

Those that are perfect men do not easily give credit to everything one tells them; for they know that human frailty is prone to evil, and very subject to fail inwards. It is great wisdom not to be rash in thy proceedings, not to stand stiffly in thine own conceits; as also not to believe everything which thou hearest, nor presently to relate again to others what thou hast heard or dost believe.

Another Editor in Bad.

Sympathy is one of the great secrets of life. It overcomes evil and strengthens good. It disarms resistance, melts the hardened heart, and develops the better part of human nature.

Make the Best of Today.

Anticipating tomorrow's opportunities and regretting yesterday's failures is scarcely a fair way to spend today. It is dividing the present and bestowing it upon two periods that have no right to it.

Unmistakable Signs.

Charles was looking through the hedge at the new neighbors who had just moved into the house next door. Suddenly he turned and ran in to his mother and said: "I bet the kid that's moved next door is a good sport, all right. He has freckles and has his big toe done up in a rag.

Wax Figures of Ancestors.

Many ancient families in England have stored away life sized figures in wax of their ancestors, made at the time of the original's death. The Duke of Norfolk has the figures of three wives of one of his ancestors, which are kept in a glass case at one of his country seats.

Clever Willie.

Glancing hastily over the pages of Willie Johnson's examination papers, the teacher was delighted to see that not one of the questions remained unanswered. But upon a more careful scrutiny her pride took a tumble. After nine of the twelve questions Willie had written politely, "I am sorry that this is a subject on which I have no information."

Figures of Speech.

An old lady, after returning from a visit to "the zoo" announced that she "always did enjoy a visit to the Theological Gardens." A servant girl, describing her master's illness, explained that the "doctors held a consolation and found that it was something eternal," and a lady recently remarked that when she was in Italy she "saw many people in the garbage of monks with tonsils on the heads."

The Braganza Diamond.

The Braganza diamond is a great mystery. Very few people have ever been allowed the privilege of looking at it, and of these few some are of the opinion it is not a diamond at all, but merely a wonderful specimen of white topaz. At any rate, it is generally conceded to be a diamond and is considered the jewel supreme of the crown jewels of the late reigning house of Portugal, the ancestral family of the duke of Braganza.

Pisa's Leaning Tower.

The famous leaning tower of Pisa is of pure white Carara marble in the Gothic style. Its departure from the perpendicular has been variously interpreted, but there is little doubt that it arises from the softness of the soil on which it stands and which has given way.

First Chief Justice.

John Jay was the first to hold the office of chief justice of the United States and received his appointment in 1789. He was born in New York, December 12, 1745. FARMER CAN MATERIALLY IMPROVE HIS HAY REVENUE BY CAREFUL PREPARATION

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Were it as easy and simple to save hay when it rains as it is to make hay when old Sol has his blast furnaces working to capacity, hay producing and marketing problems would, to a certain extent be simplified. To put a gauge on the weather man and to regulate the amount of dew, rain and sunshine served out during the haymaking season, would be the hay farmer's dream of Utopia. Although the hay raiser cannot cash in on any such a vision, he can materially improve his hay revenue by more careful market preparation of his cash crop of forage. Uncle Sam wants to help every farmer to make the most of his surplus hay crop, and hence he has just published Farmers' Bulletin 1049 which is replete in helpful hints and practical suggestions on when, why, and how to bale hay and manage baling crews.

Hay is graded according to the way in which it is baled. Bales of uniform size and of neat, attractive appearance bring top prices, other conditions being equal, while ragged, unsightly bales are penalized. In baling hay for market, various practices are in operation; some are followed unconsciously in order to avoid extra work, while others are followed deliberately with intent to deceive the buyer, which tends to lower the market value of hay in the bale irrespective of its actual quality.

The new department of agriculture publication describes the various types of hay presses, discusses their adaptability and operation under different conditions, and gives detailed information concerning the management of baling crews. The question of owning a press or hiring the work of baling is rather fully considered, as it is believed that many hay growers who now hire custom balers would do well to give careful consideration to the advantages that may accrue from having a press on the farm.

Types of Presses Discussed.

Presses are divided into three classes, according to the manner in which the bale is made—loose or box presses, perpetual or continuous presses, and round-bale presses. These machines are operated either by horsepower or by steam, gasoline or kerosene engines. The perpetual press, which is the most popular type in all sections where hay is grown for market, features continuous pressing; that is, hay is fed into the press, a forkful at a time, and the finished bale is discharged from the opposite end of the bale chamber without stopping the press. If the hay is properly fed into the press it will be easy to separate the bale into as many portions for feeding as there are numbers of charges in the bale, which varies from 6 or 8 to 15 or 20. The first box presses were operated by hand, but now they are run by horsepower or by engines. The box press always makes bales having the same or "even" length, a very valuable feature when loading cars.

Round Bale a New Kind.

One of the most recent types of presses makes a cylindrical bale, bound with binding twine and having an air space running lengthwise through its center. This press was designed so that hay baled from the windrow would cure out after it was baled, the hole in the center being intended to allow air to circulate through the bale and prevent heating. This bale is not as easily torn apart as the continuously pressed bale, it being necessary to chop or split it lengthwise with an ax or other edged implement. When round bales are fed in open bunks or on the ground in the feed lot, they are not opened; the animal pulls out the hay by a mouthful at a time. It is claimed that this way of feeding the hay prevents waste.

One-horse, perpetual presses, made by reliable concerns, are capable of turning out the same kind of bales as are made by the regulation two-horse presses. They are designed for the farmer who has a small average of hay, and they can be especially recommended for the small hay grower if he is in a section where little hay is grown and where hay presses are scarce and hard to hire. The only objection to this type of press is its small production a day. If the prospective purchaser is in doubt as to which size to buy, it would probably be better in many instances for him to buy the two-horse press. The one-horse press can be used to advantage if hay is baled from the stack or barn at a time when there is no urgent need to do other farm work.

The two-horse, full-circle, or continuous-travel, perpetual press is the type of horse press most extensively used. In operating this machine the horses travel in a circle. In buying a press of this type the purchaser should pay especial attention to the power mechanism, the material used for important parts of the press, size of the feed opening, plunger return device, self-feeding attachment, and convenience in tying the bales and in setting and moving the press.

The reversible lever type of press is sometimes called the half-circle press, since the team travels half a circle, turns around, and pulls the lever to the other side, a charge of hay being pressed for each half circle. This type is easily portable and is always ready for work, since it is not necessary to take off the wheels or lower them from the ground to the axle or to stake the front end of the press. It has a smaller hour capacity than the continuous-travel press and requires a well-trained team to operate it to capacity.

Large Growers Use Power.

Large hay growers and shippers who buy and bale large quantities of hay generally use power presses. These are in common use in sections where the usual practice is to bale hay from the windrow or the cock, such as the alfalfa and Johnson grass and prairie hay sections of the South. They are sometimes used in preference to the two-horse type on alfalfa and Johnson grass hay farms, even where the hay acreage is comparatively small, say from 50 to 75 acres, for the reason that they will bale hay about twice as fast as it could be done with a two-horse press, thereby greatly lessening the danger of injury to hay due to bad weather.

As power to drive hay presses, the steam engine, portable or self-propelling, has been almost entirely superseded by the gasoline or kerosene engine. With a gas engine there is no need for an engine and a water hauler. A few owners employ an engineer when doing custom baling with a fast-working crew, because he keeps the engine going and saves expensive loss of time on the part of the press crew. When the crew is hired by the ton the men are not paid for time lost on account of a break-down, and in such cases engineers are not often employed. Usually one of the press crew looks after the engine when it requires attention. On farms where tractors are used, if the tractor is not needed for other essential work when it is time to bale hay, the belt power press should ordinarily be used, since it costs less than the motor press, and since it would not be good business to use a motor press while a tractor stands idle.

Thorough discussion is also given in this government publication to the important features of power presses, the difference between the light-duty and heavy-duty presses, the longevity of the press, as well as facts about the economic operation of these presses. The capacity of the press depends, to a large extent, upon the skill of the crew operating it. The average power press should bale from 20 to 30 tons in a 10-hour day.

Cream in Hot Weather.

In hot weather it is a good plan to cool the cream to as low a temperature as possible for at least four hours before churning, which allows time for the fat to cool and harden.

POULTRY FACTS

INFERTILE EGGS KEEP BEST

Fertile Germ in Hot Weather Quickly Becomes Blood Ring, Spoiling Egg for Market.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farmers lose millions of dollars annually from bad methods of producing and handling eggs. One-third of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

The rooster makes the egg fertile. The fertile egg makes the blood ring. You can save the money now lost from blood rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as the hen or incubator.

After the hatching season cook, sell, or pen your rooster. Your hens not running with a male bird will produce infertile eggs—quality eggs that keep best and market best.

Rules for handling eggs on the farm: Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Farmers are urged to follow these simple rules, which cost nothing but time and thought and will add dollars to the poultry yard returns:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill, or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

POULTRY KEEPING PAYS WELL

Community Breeding Association in Virginia Proves Most Profitable Institution.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A striking example of community breeding accomplishment is furnished by the Barred Plymouth Rock association, Farmville, Va. Organized for poultry improvement in 1915, this association has made such continuous and rapid growth that it has been incorporated with a capital stock of $1,500, and a manager employed to handle its affairs.

A Well-Selected Flock of Young Hens of Uniform Size, the Kind That Make Excellent Winter Layers.

Receipts during the first five months of operation amounted to $7,500, and recent reports show that members of the association have on hand more than six thousand Barred Plymouth Rock hens and pullets. In the spring of 1916 they sold 1,000 capons on a northern market.

Before the Farmville association was formed poultry keeping in that locality was merely incidental, an unimportant side line to other farming activities. Today poultry keeping is one of the important industries of that region, and even the casual traveler is impressed with the large numbers of Barred Rocks and farms.

Joseph Hergesheimer was talking at the Authors' club in New York about the copyright law, which deprives a writer and his heirs of any remuneration from his work 58 years after its copyright.

"We authors," said Mr. Hergesheimer, "have little to fear from the bolsheviks. Our work has always been treated as under bolshevik regime.

"But, then, literary artists," added the talented writer whimsically, "have the consolation that their work lives after them. Look at Rubens! He painted a thousand pictures, yet there are something like four thousand in existence today!"

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is inclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. At the first sign that your kidneys are not working properly, go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

RECOGNIZED THAT ART WORK

Profiteer Picked Out Wrong Man to Boast About Picture He Had "Picked Up."

A Kansas City profiteer moved into his gaudy new home last week, and last night was piloting a salaried friend around through the new rugs and furniture. As they entered the "library," the profiteer pointed with great pride to a lurid picture 6 by 9, on the wall, and said:

"How d'ye like that for art? I'm ashamed to tell you how cheap I got that down at the art shop the other day. See that torn place in the corner? That was made, the dealer said, by one o' them German looters in the Thirty-Year war."

"The dealer was mistaken," observed the salaried friend. "It was another war. It was made by a beer bottle I threw myself. I never could stand that picture, especially when I was lit up. Grogan's bartender kicked me clear across the sidewalk the night I heaved that bottle. So Grogan's selling off his pictures, is he?"—Kansas City Star.

THE ROOSTER'S IDEAS.

Nick and Nancy had come home again. They had left their cousins feeling very happy for all now were such good friends, and they were better friends than ever before after the visit, which made everything very nice to tell to Daddy. Some of the animals from the barnyard belonging to the house where the cousins lived, had been taken over by Daddy, for the cousins were going to move to the city, and they wanted their animals to be among friends. They had only taken their dog with them.

Sir Benjamin Bacon and Sir Percival Pork, now two of the leading pigs of the pig pen were having a fight over some food, but Mr. Red Crown Rooster was paying no attention to them. Nick and Nancy had been feeding all the animals and now they were listening to Mr. Rooster, who was talking at the top of his voice, or crowing, as his talk is usually called.

"In the good old days," said Mr. Rooster, "folks paid attention to me. They may think a lot of Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen now that her eggs have become so scarce, but they don't pay half enough attention to a good-natured, kindly old rooster.

"Now, last summer I had a narrow escape. I was crossing the road when one of these horrible dust throwers came along. By a dust thrower I mean a motor car or an automobile, or whatever it is they are called.

"This one had the usual horrid horn attached to it and how that horn did toot. I hurried out of the way and I was almost nearly run over. Dear me, but it was a narrow escape. I might have lost my life. True, they did warn me they were coming.

"But what uppish creatures motors are. The very idea of telling a fellow to get out of the way in such a rude manner. And think of the service I have always done people.

"I have awakened them in the morning. True, they have grumbled. They have said that just because I was an early riser it was no reason I should try to wake people up. But I knew what was good for them.

"I knew they shouldn't be staying in bed so long, I knew they should be getting up and enjoying the sunlight and working and not wasting time.

"I feel a friendly feeling for that alarm clock Nick and Nancy talk about. That alarm clock gets abused too. It seems to my rooster mind that alarm clocks lead very sad lives. They see that children aren't late to school and that men aren't late to business and that ladies see that the breakfast is on time but do they get thanked for it?

"Not a bit of it. I've heard people say,

"'Oh, I could have killed that old alarm clock this morning. I was having a nice sleep and it didn't care, in the least.'

"Now, the alarm clock was doing its duty. It was seeing that whoever was in the room with it wasn't late. That was most important. So I feel a friendly feeling for the alarm clock for I have been abused, too.

"But I could stand all that if only I could still be the king of the barnyard. Now that motors have come along the motor horn is treating us all as slaves, making us rush this way and that, from one side of the road to the other. I am against all things modern. I'm for the good old days when a crowing rooster was thought to be a creature worth while.

"It may be all right for Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen to live in these modern days, but they are sad days for the rooster."

"What are you crowing about, old Red Crown?" asked Nick.

"Yes, you have a lot to say for yourself," said Nancy.

"I'm dreading the summer and the automobiles," said Red Crown.

"But the summer has just past," said Nancy, "you shouldn't be so upset, and you do seem upset about something. I guess I'll give you an extra handful of grain."

"I'm dreading next summer," said Red Crown, "but I feel a little better now. I've two good friends in a good old barnyard, after all. Maybe the automobile will go out of date and the motor birds of the air, the airplanes will take their places. Then they'll toot their horns for creatures to get off the clouds and the good old roosters of the barnyard will rule as they used to rule. In that case I'm for the days to come.

"But I do dread next summer, for this last one has been a hard, hard one," he ended.

Nothing Doing There.

Noiselessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged away at the dressing table drawer.

Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph.

Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

Price of Happiness.

No man can be happy when he despises his own acts, when he has any consciousness of wrong, whether of motive or act. No man can be happy when he harbors thoughts of revenge, jealousy, envy or hatred. He must have a clean heart and a clean conscience, or no amount of money or excitement can make him happy.—Exchange.

Exercised Discretion.

Richard, on his first visit to the country, climbed the fence into the field where a Jersey cow was grazing. The cow, being somewhat of a pet, greeted him with a loud and joyous moo, whereupon Richard beat a hasty and disorderly retreat. "No, I wasn't edzackly afraid," he explained; "but when she kept saying, 'Move, move!' I thought I'd better keep a-movin'!"
